

Concerning Cookies and Access Logs

This website uses cookies and access logs to provide better services and understand usage.

Cookies are information that a website temporarily stores in your browser and do not contain any personally identifiable information.

This makes it possible to improve the convenience of the reservation form and simplify re-entry. In addition, this website may collect access logs (IP address, browser type, viewing time, etc.). This information is used for security and service improvement purposes, such as server management, prevention of unauthorized access, and statistical analysis of usage.

Customers can refuse to accept cookies or delete existing cookies by changing their browser settings. However, if cookies are disabled, some functions of the site may not be available.

For details on the use of cookies, please see our hotel's privacy policy.